DESCRIPTION

Set of Rey chairs designed by Bruno Rey for Dietiker in Switzerland during the 1970s.

The model is defined by its circular seat, open curved backrest and bentwood structure assembled without visible screws. The broad vertical legs give rhythm to the silhouette, creating a chair that feels stable, graphic and compact.

This red stained wood version enhances the decorative strength of the design and emphasizes the model's rounded lines.

Manufacturer: Dietiker, Switzerland, circa 1970.
