DESCRIPTION

Bedside table in bent plywood forming a U-shaped volume, designed by Pierre Guariche for the La Plagne ski residences in the late 1960s.

Covered with white laminate and joined by a veneered wood stretcher, the piece reflects Guariche's pursuit of pure, rational, and easily produced furniture. Designed for compact living spaces, it combines modernist aesthetics with functionality, in line with the designer's holistic approach to interior architecture.

Origin: La Plagne, Savoie.

Manufacturer: Negroni, circa 1968.
